DETAILED ACTION

Drawings

1. The drawings filed on 12/1/2003 are accepted by the examiner.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. Claims 1-10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over U.S. Patent No. 5,325,994 to Mizialko et al. ("Mizialko") in view of U.S. Patent No. 1,543,086 to Baehr ("Baehr") and U.S. Patent No. 6,439,806 to Dillingham ("Dillingham").

Mizialko discloses in Figures 1-7 a portable heating and melting apparatus that is similar to that described in applicant's claims 1-10. In particular, Mizialko discloses a containment body (12) a plurality of vent apertures (18), a handle (90) mounted to the containment body, a gas burner (24) located within a cavity of the containment body, a flowable material/tar cooking vessel (see vessel formed by inner walls 14), a lid (42), a temperature gauge (30), and a pair of wheels (48). Mizialko also discloses a front wheel (52) that serves as front support contacting the ground. The examiner regards this wheel as the foot claimed by applicant in claims 4 and 6. Mizialko further discloses a flexible hose connected the gas burner and a fuel tank (see Figs. 1 and 2). The bottom wall of the interior receptacle is shown spaced from the outer wall and is located above the burner, this structure is considered the equivalent of the platform recited by applicant.

Mizialko does not disclose that the temperature gauge is mounted on the lid. However, Dillingham is cited to show a tar heating apparatus that is analogous to that of Mizialko. In Dillingham, a temperature gauge (55) is shown mounted in the lid of an interior container (see Fig. 1). It would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify the apparatus of Mizialko to incorporate the temperature gauge location of Dillingham as this location is understood in the art to desirably allow for extending of a temperature probe attached to the gauge into the container for measuring the temperature of the contents of the container and provides for viewing of the temperature display (see Mizialko, col. 6, lines 4-10).

Mizialko also does not disclose that the tar cooking vessel is capable of removable insertion, and a pivotal handle.

Baehr discloses a material heating apparatus that includes a lower base (8) housing the heating elements and a cooking vessel (1). The cooking vessel may be separated from the base and includes a pivotal handle (24) for carrying the vessel (see page 2, lines 75-86). It would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify the interior cooking vessel portion of Mizialko to incorporate the removable cooking vessel structure of Baehr as this feature desirable allows for a user to gain access to the heating elements for inspection or repair (see Baehr, page 1, lines 55-65).

Conclusion

4. This action is made non-final. A THREE month shortened statutory period for reply has been set. Extensions of time may be available under the provisions of 37 CFR 1.136(a). In no event, however, may a reply be timely filed after SIX (6) months from the mailing date of this communication.

5. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. U.S. Patents to Gailor, Cretors, Bold, Glade, Fitzpatrick, Byrne, and British Patent No. 2 094 468 are cited to further show the state of the art concerning heating and melting apparatus.
